Spain Is Excited Over a Squabble

KING HAS CONTROVERSY WITH HIS AUNT OVER NOVEL THIS IS WRITING.

Paris, Dec 5.—The Infanta Eulalia sent the following telegram today to the Spanish premier: "I await punishment, but I am contemplating a voyage. I request you to transmit it as soon as possible."

The Infanta insists on the extradition of the text of her dispatch to the king, explaining that she sent two telegrams, one merely announcing that she would take leave of the king. She did not publish this but gave out her second dispatch.

Madrid, Dec 5.—The controversy between King Alfonso and his aunt the Infanta Eulalia, interference to the book which the princess is publishing under the pen name of Countess Avila, has caused a profound sensation throughout Spain.

Official circles express open displeasure at the publicity given the incident in France. Then say the French press has misrepresented the facts, and the text of dispatches exchanged between the king and the Infanta, while the discussion of the incident in the Spanish legislation is referred to, is considered most regrettable. The princess seems it is said, in the same quarters, purposely inspired to affect the approaching negotiations regarding the Moroccan question.

The monarchist press, in spite of support of the king, and from the controversy, and it is understood it attack on Spain as an enemy of progress, on the contrary applauds the decision of the Infanta as a "valiant and audacious act of rebellion."

The cabinet has concluded the controversy, and it is understood it supports the king and is confident of routing off the Infanta's attempt of $60,000.

A distinguished member of the Spanish court is quoted as saying to you no law abiding, that you are a day that a rupture between King Alfonso and Infanta Eulalia had long been expected. She had not been on good terms with Queen Maria Christina. When Alfonso ascended to the throne conditions improved but they became worse again when the Infanta's son Alfonso, wedded the Princess of Coburg without authorization of the king, for which Alfonso was deprived of his title and expelled from the army. He was recently reinstated in the ranks and sent to Melilla and the understanding that his title would be restored and the incident forgotten as soon as he had distinguished himself.

Unfortunately he fell ill on his arrival at Melilla and asked permission to return to Spain. The king's suggestion that he should remain at Melilla displeased the Infanta Eulalia.

You may be honest alright, but it isn't working well till others know about it, and you shouldn't have to tell them.

If a hog finds a pulling off the fence, and gets a habit of going through it, you can nail the pulling back, and yet the dogs on that hog and it will run into the fence, and never understand why it can't get out, as it always did. So many people are that way. They never know when the pulling in nailed back.

The man who does the best he can from day to day, doesn't put much faith in mere luck.

The days between the first of December and the 25th is in to wait out night to.

A man can be as mean as the devil could ask, for all practical purposes, and then never admit any of the laws of the country in which he lives. So don't think because you are law abiding, that you are a good citizen.

GOVERNOR WILSON APPLIES FOR PENSION

Baltimore, Md., Dec 5.—Governor Woodrow Wilson, in a signed statement issued here tonight regarding a story printed today that he had applied to the Carnegie foundation for a pension, admitted that he had made such application before his election as governor of New Jersey. The Governor justified his action on the grounds of long service as a teacher, that he had no private means to depend upon and that "a man who goes into politics bound by the principles of honor, puts his family and all who may be dependent upon him for support at the mercy of any incalculable turn of the wheel of fortune."

The statement follows: "I am not a pensioner."

"The Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching is not a plan for old age pensions, but for the granting or retiring allowances on the ground of length and quality of service. Before I was elected Governor of New Jersey, when I had just entered the uncertain field of politics I applied to the foundation for a retiring allowance to which I understood myself to be entitled under the rules adopted by its trustees. I have no private means to depend upon. A man who goes into politics bound by the principles of honor puts his family and all who may be dependent upon his support at the mercy of any incalculable turn of the wheel of fortune and I felt entirely justified in seeking to provide against such risks, particularly when I was applying for what I supposed myself to be entitled to by right of long service at a teacher under the rules of the Foundation and not by favor.

I understood that upon the receipt of my application the executive committee of the trustees of the Foundation restricted the interpretation of their rule and declined to grant the allowance. Why the matter should come up again now I do not know. I have had nothing to do with it since the early autumn of 1910. I have not renewed the application."

What to Eat?
COOK BOOK

YOUR daily problem of what to eat is very easily solved—pass it on to us. It is not what you eat that has alone to be considered—it is the quality of what you eat. It is easy to say "Let's have some special dish for dinner," but the mere buying of the materials for that dish does not make your dinner a success. You must have the best of everything to get the fullest enjoyment from the meal.

Our reputation is built on selling the best of groceries. We have studied the "what to eat" problem for our own sake as well as yours. Come in and let us talk it over.

Judge Bordwell Gives Sentences to McNamaras

JAMES B. GETS LIFE TIME SENTENCE AND JOHN J. GETS FIFTEEN YEARS.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 5.—James B. McNamara, the confessed dynamiter of the Times building which twenty-one lives were lost, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Bordwell when court convened today.

John J. McNamara, the confessed dynamiter of the Lickelly iron works, was sentenced to fifteen years subsequent to his brother's sentence.

The men will serve their terms in San Quentin penitentiary.

Frederick Arrives First. District Attorney Fredericks appeared in court just before 10:30 o'clock. At that time Investigator Brown was searching everybody who appeared. He was aided by seven policemen.

The bailiff cleared the court room. The big doors swung open and the oak bars held the crowd back.

"Hear ye, hear ye, hear ye, hear ye," cried the bailiff at the opening of court at 10:30, and as he spoke Judge Bordwell mounted his bench. A moment later Attorney Darrow, counsel for the defense, followed by LeCompte Davis and Joseph Scott, entered.

Behind them trailed the McNamaras.

"Are you ready to proceed?" asked Judge Bordwell.

"The state is," said Fredericks and read James B. McNamara a confession and death sentence.

The state is said. Confession is read. James B. McNamara, chief confessor, placed by his own hand late yesterday and bearing many evidences a man little skilled in letters, was made public today. It is as follows:

"I, James B. McNamara, defendant in the dynamiting case, having heretofore plead guilty to the crime of murder, desire to make this statement of facts:

"And this is the truth. On the night of September 20, 1919, at 5:45 p. m., I placed in link alley, a portion of the Times building, a small case containing sixteen sticks of dynamite, dynamite, not to explode at 1 o'clock next morning. I did not intend to take the lives of anyone. I sincerely regret that these unfortunate men lost their lives. If the giving of my life would bring them back, I would gladly do it. In fact, in pleading guilty to murder in the first degree, I have placed my life in the hands of the state.

(Signed) "James B. McNamara."

"Is that satisfactory correct?"

"It is," said McNamara.

"Then the court reads," said the judge, "that ten degrees of guilt on the defendant is murder in the first degree."

"James B. McNamara, you may stand up," he said. "What is your last name?"

"James Boyd McNamara," said the prisoner.

The court reads a formal statement reciting the indictment for murder of Charles J. Haggerty, upon which McNamara pleaded guilty, and asked McNamara if he had any statements to make.

"I have not."

Fredericks's Plea. "Have you anything to say?" he asked Fredericks.

"There has been no dickering nor bargaining in this matter," he said.

"Control on the other side are well aware of the usual custom of granting clemency to persons pleading guilty."

"The defendant by so pleading, may secure for all times the questions which would always otherwise have been to doubt. He saves the state great expenditure and saves the state in other ways," concluded the prosecutor.

"The defendant will arise," said Judge Bordwell, who commanded the defendant to stand up.

Judge Bordwell declared he would impose the penalty of imprisonment for life.

SCHOOL TIME is Shoe Time

YOUR boys and girls will need new shoes for school. Have you given this important matter the thought it deserves? Or do you just buy any kind of shoes and if the soles wear out, or the uppers split in a couple of weeks, blame it on the children? Really, the fault is not theirs. Children can not be expected to sit quietly to save shoe expense. Rather, you should economize by providing your children with shoes that will stand the wear.

Sunday School Work

The semi-annual meeting of the Executive Committee of the Alabama Sunday School Association held at the headquarters of the association at 625-27 Bell Bldg., Montgomery, at 11 a. m. Tuesday, December 5. Those present were W. D. Mallory, Selma; W. J. Mag, Mobile; W. D. Dillard, Mobile; D. H. Marbury, Marbury; W. Armstrong Brown, G. G. Miles, W. Durr, Jr., M. M. Sweet, F. Frazer and D. W. Sims, of Montgomery. Besides the regular business the General Secretary's semi-annual report was presented and unanimously adopted. It showed that the total number of classes held by the State workers in the six months was 230, total number of speeches 737, to approximately 65,468 people. From the same source in the six months there were sent out 7,212 first-class letters, 7,760 second-class letters and packages of leaflets, making a total of 15,789 pieces of mail sent. The report showed that work in Alabama through the state was in general in better condition than a year ago, and that the Banner Sunday School charters were being up in the Sunday Schools throughout the State. County conventions have been held in every county in Alabama this year. Clay County held two conventions. The Alabama Sunday School Bulletin circulation has increased to over six thousand. The size of the paper has grown from eight to ten pages, and the subscription paid twenty-two pages. The Executive Committee unanimously decided to employ Mrs. Myra Shepherd, State Elementary Superintendent, on full time instead of part time as it has been doing. It also decided for Mr. Leon C. Baker to be transferred from the State in Birmingham to the State, beginning with December 1st and of February 1st as had been previously arranged. It was decided to hold the next convention in April, 1912, 1912. The place was not yet decided. A sub-committee consisting of Judge Armstrong

FRANCE MAY EXPEL WITCHES

Government is After Workers of Magic Who Fatten on Credulity of the Peasants.
M. Cappel, as minister of justice is hard at work attempting to crush the practice of sorcery in France. This seems a curious necessity in the twentieth century, but it is a very real necessity for all that French people, like all nations, are very superstitious, and although most people in the towns laugh at the thought read or the fact of the thing even while they go to consult them, the wise woman, the witch and workers of magic, black and white, exist in the country and practice their arts with impunity, to their own satisfaction and occasionally to that of their victims.
A case in a village in Normandy may be recalled, a short while ago, where an old woman died of fright because she had been "bewitched." She had refused to give or sell the witch some eggs because she wanted them herself. The witch made signs at her and told her she was stricken dumb. The old woman proved conclusively ill the witch went away that she was not dumb just yet at all events, but that evening she scolded her tongue badly with her soup. It swelled a little, and she could not speak distinctly. This frightened her so (she was a woman of 80 and ill) that she took to her bed, had a stroke of paralysis and died a few days afterward.
At Morlaix last week a worker of witch magic killed a girl of 12 as surely as though he had shot her through the head. She suffered from bronchitis. To cure her the "wizard" ordered her to go barefoot to the cemetery, collect some earth from a newly-made grave, strip herself completely, and after finding a spider in walk home with the grave earth in one hand and the spider in the other. She was then to bury them outside her garden gate and to cut her finger nails and toe nails with a pair of rusty scissors before she re-entered the house. The girl followed the prescription carefully, and, being ill before she followed it she not only naturally caught another cold and died—Paris Letter to the London Express.
Hard to Realize.
The variety of ways in which a person number of articles may be placed has often created much curiosity. A mathematician once set himself to the task of calculating the number of different ways in which the fifty-two cards of a pack could be distributed among four players thirteen to each, taking every possible combination. It would be useless to present the answer here in a long row of figures for no one can realize what such a number

Spurs the Doves.

The "little doves are great feeders on the seeds of weeds, and do much to protect growing crops from harm through the ravages of those weeds on the seeds of which they feed. The government biological survey, in conducting its investigation to determine the economic value of these birds, found in the stomachs of three toyle doves 23,100 hawkweed seeds, with the seeds of several other kinds of weeds which have caused the former incontinence and expense during a larger portion of the crop growing season. These birds are much more effective as a weed exterminating force than an army of men with hoes and weedeers, because the best that man can do is to keep the weeds in check to a certain extent, while the seed devoured by the bird is destroyed and prevented from taking root. It is estimated that the natural increase of these birds, if they were allowed to multiply without interruption, would save the American farmer at least $500,000,000 a year.
The Perverse Husband.
John Collier, the secretary of New York's Board of Moving Picture Censors, said the other day.
"It's no good getting up objectionable picture plays. We never pass them. In fact, we turn them down so invariably that it seems to me the composers of such plays are animated by a spirit of perversity. They remind me of old Uncle Ichabod." "Uncle Ichabod sat fishing on the bank of a tiny rivulet when a green her appeared beside him and said:
"Is it possible that there are any such in such a small stream as this?" "No there don't come. Uncle Ichabod replied:
"But you're fishing?" "Yes," said Uncle Ichabod.
"What then is your object?" "My object," said Uncle Ichabod, "is to show my wife I can't get my line to catch the fishes."
